Anytime you turn the tap, water comes out. But have you ever thought about where that water comes from, what path it takes, and how it gets to where you are? This is a museum which explores wonders of water from a scientific view as well as allowing one to deepen their interest in water and the waterworks in a experience style.

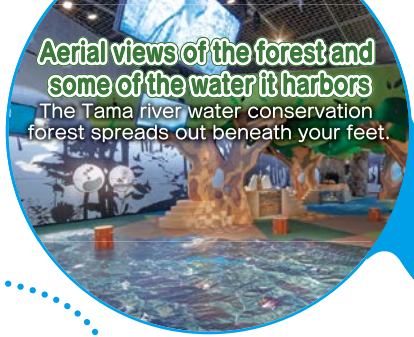

From the forest to your home - the journey of water

A stunning theater which projects not forwards, but also to the left and right walls and the ceiling.

Start from the 3F "Aqua Trip"

Experience the feelings of a drop of water in "the Water Cycle."

Aerial views of the forest and some of the water it harbors

The Tama river water conservation forest spreads out beneath your feet.

Do you know where the tap water originally comes from, and how it reaches us?

Watch carefully. Everything lives and works together.

Nature and water in the forest

Water, forests and all the creatures that live there.

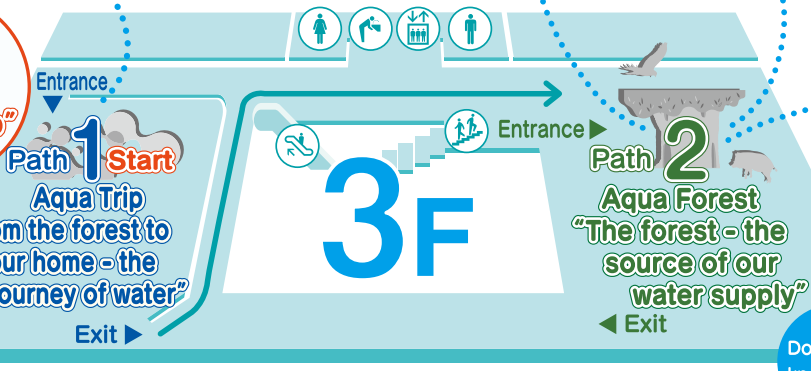

Protecting the forest and its water

The forest requires constant care and attention from the many people involved in conserving it.

Do you know that?
